Mark Twain Park: Odessa's new foodie hotspot

Looking for a place where you can enjoy amazing food and real nature? Visit Mark Twain Park in Odessa. This lively green area has recently become a real hotspot for local people and tourists, especially at weekends.

The park's main attraction is permanent bessarabian food spot. It is not an ordinary market: it is a perfect meeting place for ukrainian, moldovian, bulgarian, gagauz and romanian food conventions. You can taste freshly baked bread, grilled meat, herbs and sweet pastries everywhere etc..

There are an array of dishes for every taste. Try banosh with cheese, moldovian placindas, bulgarian banitsa, grilled vegetables or fish cooked in the Odessa style. My personal favourite is bulgarian kavarma: a warm, spicy dish with meat and vegetables. Do not leave without tasting homemade cherry juice or a piece of honey cake.

What makes the spot special is an atmosphere. Musicians often play folk songs, children join cooking workshops and local farmers proudly tell visitors about their products. In the evening, lights appear between the trees, creating a cosy and almost magical place to sit with friends.

The park is easy to reach by public transport or taxi from the city center. If you are a food lover, Mark Twain Park is an essential point in Odessa. Come hungry and be ready to discover of bessarabian delicious food!
